Detailed Action

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is not clear whether the subject matter is a composition, a method of making a composition, or a method of treatment. If Claim 1 is intended to be a method for the use of the protein UK114, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bartorelli et al. (WO 99/43340, 09/02/1999). Claims 1 and 2 are drawn to the UK114 protein used for the preparation of a composition (possibly containing ubiquitin) used for the treatment of Leishmaniasis in humans and animals. Bartorelli and Santi teach about the UK101 protein extract that contains, inter alia, UK114 and ubiquitin (p.1, line 4-6), and about pharmaceutical compositions for UK101 and UK114 for oral and sublingual administration (p.2, lines 5-19). Bartorelli and Santi teach that the main ingredient in the UK101 pharmaceutical composition is UK114 and that patients are treated with the composition (page 1, lines 10-16). Bartorelli and Santi do not teach about treating Leishmaniasis. However the curative properties of the UK114 based pharmaceutical composition are due to the structural features of the UK114 protein, which do not change while being used to treat a different disease, and therefore its biological properties are inherent. "[T]he discovery of a previously unappreciated property of a prior art composition, or of a scientific explanation for the prior art's functioning, does not render the old composition patentably new to the discoverer." Atlas Powder Co. v. Ireco Inc., 190 F.3d 1342, 1347, 51 USPQ2d 1943, 1947 (Fed. Cir. 1999).
